You view the world as a place to survive. Most of the time you are quiet and keep to yourself, because you are too busy thinking and dreaming about your passions in life. You truly care for others, and feel their pains and sorrows. You try to understand a persons mind and emotions, and sometimes try calculate your own future. You are consistently searching for love. Your friends are few but also loyal and true. You also try to enjoy all you can in life but be careful because you might take it to extremes with how confident you may portray yourself to be around superiors. Your true desires are love and peace.
