

Radu Hurmuz

Science 9

The making of a mutation story

What questions did you research in order to create your mutation story? : I asked questions like how it appeared on the body first, what caused the disease and how it affected the hosts' life

What new or familiar digital tools did you try to use as you worked through this project? : I used google and Wikipedia seeing as those websites are my main websites to go to when I do my projects and they are the most reliable

What was the process you used to investigate the topic? : well I got my questions first, put them into a first person perspective and then I imagined myself being the gene mutation going through every procedure a normal one would make

How did you verify and cite the information you found? : Every website I use is reliable because I have gotten reliable information from them before but there was one I haven't used before in my project so I had to double check its reliability

How did the process of completing this challenge go? What could you have done differently? : the process didn't give me too much trouble but I could of managed my time better because I had other homework to work on and I kept putting this project off