

Sam The Athlete

Who says boys can't wear skirts "In the 1800s they did."

Sam The Athlete written by Stewart Mclean.

Sam though he was playing on an all girls field hockey team so he wore the same uniform all the girls wore which included a skirt for three weeks he lived in a lie pretending he was a girl. When his mom cleared up that boys could join the team he continued to wear the skirt.

Sam should continue to wear the skirt because it makes him happy and confident to wear it. Those are two important things.

When Sam was given the opportunities to wear a pair of shorts he said no because "the skirt was making him so happy"(pg.68) so he continued to wear the skirt for the rest of the season. Sam started to feel "happy when he was wearing his skirt".(pg.68) because he was good at field hockey everyone would cheer and say good job to him.

Sam grew more confident when he started wearing the skirt it made him feel proud to be on the field hockey team and he was also good at the sport.