 <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> How does the artifact you selected demonstrate strengths &amp; growth in the communication competency?  In what ways might you further develop your communication competency?	Self-Reflection Describe how the artifact you selected shows your strengths & growth in specific core competencies. The prompt questions on the left - or other self-assessment activities you may have done - may guide your reflection process.  What listening skills do you use to enhance your learning?  For our dance, we had eight people, so at times it was quite hard to communicate our ideas. We figured out a way that we could work and that everyone was happy with. We realized that some people were better at listening and understanding and some others were better at communicating their ideas and taking charge. This way, we had one or two people that would lead the group, give suggestions, and make sure that everyone knew what they were doing, and everyone else gave suggestions or ideas as to what they wanted to do. What was really important was that everyone listened to one another, and in the beginning, we were quite nervous so we were not really listening to one another, but after some practice, we calmed down and we started listening to each other.  What do you do when you disagree with someone in your group or discussion? How did you learn/develop that strategy?  Often, when someone suggested an idea, some people would not like the ideas, but some others would love it. Usually, when this happened, we would try out the idea, just to see if it would work, and then we would vote on whether we wanted to do it or not. If the majority wanted to do it, then we would usually end up doing it.
