

Frequently Asked Questions:

What is the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FIPPA)?

The same law that gives parents and students access to and control over a child's educational records during elementary and high school transfers ownership of the records to the student at the college level.

College students are considered responsible adults and are allowed to determine who will have access to information about them and their studies. Under this law, confidential student information cannot be provided to anyone other than the student unless the student has provided written consent to the College (Consent to Release Applicant/Student Information Form).

How can I get information about my child's grades, financial information or other student information?

The quickest and easiest way for parents to receive information about their child's grades, financial information or other student information is for the student to provide it. In many cases, students can look up information online via their WebAdvisor account, then print it off and provide a copy to their parents.

Additionally, students may complete and submit Red River College's Consent to Release Applicant/Student Information Form. Recipients listed on the consent form will be provided with access to most information held by the College (exceptions listed on consent form).

If I'm paying for my child's education, why can't I get a copy of their records or T2202A tax receipt?

According to FIPPA and College policy, the College will not release confidential documents to anyone other than the student, regardless of who pays the tuition.

Will I be contacted if my child is sick or hurt, or is in academic trouble or facing disciplinary action?

As a general guideline, if the student is able to communicate about the situation, it is up to the student to decide whether and how to discuss the issues. The College will not contact parents or provide medical, academic or disciplinary information without the student's permission. In the case of an extreme emergency where the student's health is in serious jeopardy, or if there is a concern that the student poses a threat to himself/herself or to someone else, the College will contact the emergency contact previously provided by the student on their application form.

Where can I find out more about FIPPA?

The Government of Manitoba is responsible for overseeing FIPPA. See their website for additional information: gov.mb.ca/chc/fippa/index.html
